With the $10 bill he passed over, it was me for the second floor. An' there, restin' between one leg an' the wall, was ap overgrown, loose built rack of a man, with a big, broad, smooth, sun-burned face. When he straightened up saw he was six feet four if he was an inch, and I would have to be kind o' careful how I got gay with Mr. Larkin Harrowhill.

Still with the janitor's uniform on, it would not be back that day, and with the kind o' gift o' talk I have from my mother's family, 'twas not long before I was changin' to my street clothes and game like two old friends.

He wouldn't drink a thing, and not only that after the game he insisted on but before I go to bed I'd like to know picking flowers in the park, was stonped by a policeman who had warned him, and the next minute he had hit the cop in the car and knocked him flat must have run a mile. SWEENEY CASTS DECIDING VOTE

Is Called Upon Second Time in Mayoralty Career, to Cast Ballot.

For the second time in the two years 13.65 and 10 months that he has occupied the mayoralty chair, Jos. U. Sweeney was compeled this morning to cast a deciding vote. Today it was to decide the question as to whether the city should or should not pave the intersections in the continuation of Magoffin avenue through the Cotton addition.

The vote stood two to two and therefore the mayor cast a vote deciding that the city would not pave the intersec-The only other time that he called upon to cast a vote was in April, 1997, when he had been in office but a short time. The matter of an appoint-ment was up and the vote being tied. the mayor was compeled to use his power to decide the question at issue.
